

Misinformation induction

Unrelated-topic conversation

(a) Internal representation of the original claim

(b) Behavioral answer probability for the original claim

What this shows: the original fact is measured at baseline, while fabricated information is reinforced, and every five turns after the conversation switches to an unrelated topic. Recovery occurs when the original-question factuality margin returns above zero and correct-answer probability returns above 50%.